

EMERGENCY FIRST RESPONSE INSTRUCTOR COURSE

You need to be an EFRI before PADI will register you as being in Teaching Status as an Instructor. We generally run the EFRI course a few days before the IDC. It takes about 1.5 days.

PREREQUISITE

A current EFR or other primary and secondary care user level certification that is less than 2 years old from the date of the EFR course you will be taking at the dive centre.

PREPARATION

Videos

It is advisable for you to watch the EFR Primary & Secondary Care & Care For Children DVD before attending the EFRI to ensure you are well prepared. This is essential if you have not done an EFR course in the last 24 months, have not done a Care for Children Course or are doing a crossover program.

If you are having difficulty getting your hand in the DVDs / videos please contact us.

Knowledge Reviews

There are four Knowledge Reviews that need to be completed before the EFRI course. Find them in Primary & Secondary Care / Appendix / Independent Learning (A-45) of the EFR Instructor Guide (you need to have an up to date version of before attending the EFRI).

Please follow the instructions at the top of each Knowledge Review to find the answers and fill them in (you can use the copy in the Instructor Guide, the dive centre has more copies if you need them)!

- Program Standards
Read EFR Primary & Secondary Care Instructor Guide – Sections 1 & introductions to 2 - 4.
- Human Body Systems
Reading the Human Body Systems section - Primary & Secondary Care / Appendix / Human Body Systems (A-37).
- Medical Emergencies
Read the section on medical emergencies at the back of the EFR Primary and Secondary Care Participant Manual (student manual). If you don't have one, let us know.

IDC DIVE

- Care for Children Instructor Knowledge Review
It is found in the Care for Children Instructor Guide / Appendix / Care for Children Instructor Knowledge Review (A-21). Read the Care for Children Instructor Guide to find the answers.

These Knowledge Reviews will be reviewed during the course so please come prepared.
